"SECTION 1. Section 3897 of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

3897. Except when otherwise disposed of as provided in section 3897a and 3897b of this code, whenever the state shall have become the owner of any property sold for taxes and the deed to the state has been filed with the controller as provided in section 3785, the controller may thereupon by a written authorization direct the tax collector of the county or city and county to sell the property or any part thereof as in his judgment he shall deem advisable in the manner following:

He must give notice of such sale by first publishing a notice for at least three successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county or city and county, or if there be no newspaper published therein, then by posting a notice in three conspicuous places in the county or city and county, one of which shall be at the United States post office, nearest the land, in addition to a notice conspicuously posted on the land itself for the same period. Such notices must state specifically the place of and the day and hour of sale and shall contain a description of the property to be sold and shall also contain a detailed statement of all the delinquent taxes, penalties, costs, interest, graduated penalties required under section 3817 as if redemption were to be made, and expenses up to the date of such sale and shall give the name of the person to whom the property was assessed for each year on which there may be delinquent taxes against said property or any part thereof and said notice shall embody a copy of the authorization received from the controller. It shall be the duty of the tax collector to mail within five days after the publication of said notice of sale a copy of said notice, postage thereon prepaid and registered, to the party to whom the land was last assessed next before the sale, at his last known post-office address twenty-one days before the date of sale thereunder.

At the time set for such sale, the tax collector must sell the property described in the controller's authorization and said notices, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in lawful money of the United States;

But no bid shall be received or accepted at such sale for less than the amount of all the taxes levied upon such property and all costs and penalties for every year delinquent as shown by the delinquent rolls for said years and also all tax liens up to the date of the execution of the deed to the state and all expenses accrued to the date of the sale under this section, together with interest at seven per cent per annum and also the graduated redemption penalties required under section 3817 computed upon the aggregate amount of the taxes for each year delinquent from the first day of July following delinquency in each of said years to the date of the sale hereunder; provided, however, that if the board of supervisors of the county, or city and county, in which any such property is situate, shall, by resolution entered upon their minutes, declare that, in their judgment, the property so owned by the state, and particularly described in said resolution, is not at that time of value great enough that it can be sold by the state for a sum equal to the amount of all taxes levied upon said property, and all interests, costs and penalties and expenses up to the date of such sale, and that it would be to the best interest of the state to sell the said property for a sum to be stated in said resolution, less than the sum above named, upon receipt of a copy of said resolution, certified by the clerk of said board of supervisors, the state controller may thereupon, by written authorization, direct the tax collector of the county, or city and county, to sell the said property so described in said resolution for a sum not less than the sum so stated in said resolution, together with expenses of sale.

The expense of giving the notice herein required shall be a charge against the property so advertised, and shall be collected by the collector, and no redemption of such property before said sale may be had without payment of such cost of advertising; and to secure the payment of such advertising cost the collector shall demand in advance from the party or parties seeking to purchase, a deposit with said officer of a sum sufficient to defray such cost of advertising, which deposit shall be forfeited in the event said party or parties fail or refuse to purchase at such sale; provided, that if the party or parties so depositing fail to secure such property on their bid, such deposit shall be returned, and such advertising cost shall be collected from the successful purchaser; provided also, that if the board of supervisors of the county, or city and county, in which the property is situated shall by resolution entered upon the minutes, direct the tax collector to apply for an authorization of sale of any property which has been deeded to the state, and shall authorize him to order the necessary advertising to be done at county expense, the tax collector shall thereupon proceed as though a deposit had been made to cover advertising costs, and shall add a proportionate part of the total expense of advertising to the amount of taxes, penalties and interest chargeable against each tract or parcel sold. In any case in which no sale is made, the advertising shall be charged and paid as are other county charges."

Water may be transferred from one watershed to another area or watershed under the provisions of this article; but no water except surplus water shall ever be so transferred unless the water so transferred shall be replaced with an equivalent quantity of water of proper quality from another watershed under such terms, at such times, and in such manner as shall not be detrimental to the watershed wherein such exchange is made. No surplus water shall ever be transferred under the provisions of this article from any watershed unless and until a decree or judgment, determining the existence of such surplus water and the quantity thereof, and the times when, and the terms and conditions upon which the same may be transferred, shall have been duly made and entered and shall have become final.

The superior court of any county lying wholly or in part in a watershed wherein surplus water is alleged to exist shall, upon the application or complaint of the water finance commission or of any party interested in said matter, have jurisdiction to determine the existence and extent of such watershed, the existence and quantity of such surplus water, if any, and to fix the times when and the terms and conditions upon which such surplus water or a part thereof may be transferred from such watershed, subject to other provisions of this article. All decrees and judgments determining the existence of surplus water shall be declaratory; and the court rendering any such decree or judgment shall have and retain at all times continuing jurisdiction in the action or proceeding wherein such judgment or decree was rendered; and upon application of any party interested in said matter and a hearing thereon, such court shall have power to redetermine the existence and extent of the watershed, the existence and quantity of surplus water, and the times when and the conditions and terms upon which such water should be transferred; it may modify such judgment or decree accordingly or in any respect; provided that no such redetermination or modification shall be made within five years after a previous determination or redetermination or modification of the same matter. Upon the entry of such judgment or decree or modification thereof by the trial court the transfer from the watershed of all water found by the court to be needed therein shall cease. Such judgment, decree or order shall not be suspended nor the enforcement thereof be stayed during any proceedings for a new trial or during any appeal. The Legislature is hereby authorized to enact all legislation necessary to provide for the actions and proceedings specified in this article, including provision for actions in rem to determine the existence of surplus water, and to provide for the expeditious hearing and determination thereof. An appeal may be taken to the supreme court in any of the actions or proceedings mentioned in this article. No exchange of water under the provisions of this article shall be made unless and until the right to make such exchange shall be acquired from the owner of the water to be taken on the exchange either by contract, purchase or proceedings in eminent domain. In such proceedings the court rendering the decree or judgment shall have jurisdiction to fix and determine the terms and conditions upon which such exchange shall be made. No lapse of time shall ever bar the right to bring an action or proceeding or an application for a redetermination of any matter authorized by this article. In all such actions or proceedings the burden of proof shall, irrespective of parties plaintiff or defendant, always rest upon the party seeking to establish the existence of surplus water. Neither the transfer by the state hereunder of any water from a watershed into another area nor the use of any such water in any area into which it is taken shall ever create or vest any right whatever to such water as against the watershed from which it was taken, or the lands or inhabitants thereof. No water shall be transferred from a watershed upon terms or conditions or at times which are detrimental to the watershed from which such water is taken. The state shall preserve for every watershed from which water is transferred under the provisions of this article a full and adequate supply of water for its requirements when and as they arise. And no grant or power contained in this article shall limit such obligation of the state."

"SECTION 1. Section 394 of the Code of Civil Procedure is hereby amended to read as follows:

394. An action or proceeding against a county, or city and county, may be commenced and tried in such county, or city and county, unless such action or proceeding is brought by a county, or city and county, in which case it may be tried in any county, or city and county, not a party thereto. Whenever an action or proceeding is brought by a county, city and county, or city, against a resident of another county, city and county, or city, or a corporation doing business in the latter, the action or proceeding must be, on motion of either party, transferred for trial to a county, or city and county, other than the plaintiff, if the plaintiff is a county, or city and county, and other than that in which the plaintiff is situated, if the plaintiff is a city, and other than that in which the defendant resides or is doing business or is situated. Whenever an action or proceeding is brought against a county, city and county, or city, in any county, or city and county, other than the defendant, if the defendant is a county, or city and county, or, if the defendant is a city, other than that in which the defendant is situated, the action or proceeding must be, on motion of the said defendant, transferred for trial to a county, or city and county, other than that in which the plaintiff, or any of the plaintiffs, resides, or is doing business, or is situated, and other than the plaintiff county, or city and county, or county in which such plaintiff city is situated, and other than the defendant county, or city and county, or county in which such defendant city is situated; provided, however, that any action or proceeding against a city, county, or city and county for injury occurring therein, to person or property or person and property caused by the negligence or alleged negligence or such city, county, or city and county, or its agents or employees, shall be commenced and tried in such county, or city and county, or if a city is a defendant, in such city or in the county in which such city is situated. In any action or proceeding, the parties thereto may, by stipulation in writing, or made in open court, and entered in the minutes, agree upon any county, or city and county, for the place of trial thereof. When the action or proceeding is one in which a jury is not of right, or in case a jury be waived, then in lieu of transferring the cause the court in the original county may request the chairman of the judicial council to assign a disinterested judge from a neutral county to hear said cause and all proceedings in connection therewith. When such action or proceeding is transferred to another county for trial a witness required to respond to a subpoena for a hearing within the original county shall be compelled to attend hearings in the county to which the cause is transferred. If the demand for transfer be made by one party and the opposing party does not consent thereto the additional costs of the nonconsenting party occasioned by the transfer of the cause, including living and traveling expenses of said nonconsenting party and witnesses called by such nonconsenting party not to exceed five dollars per day each in excess of witness fees and mileage otherwise allowed by law, shall be assessed by the court hearing the cause against the party requesting the transfer. To the extent of such excess, such costs shall be awarded to the nonconsenting party regardless of the outcome of the trial. This section shall apply to actions or proceedings now pending or hereafter brought."

PROCEEDINGS UNDER CALL OF THE SENATE.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of Special Committee was received and read:

REPORT.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your committee appointed under Senate resolution of April 24, 1931, to further investigate the desirability of the site selected by the State for the construction of "The California Institution for Women" under provision of an act entitled "An act to establish an institution for the confinement, care and reformation of women misdemeanants and women convicted of a felony, the punishment for which is less than death; to provide for its maintenance, conduct and government, and to make an appropriation therefor," approved May 9, 1929, respectfully reports as follows:

That on the second day of May, 1931, the committee, in pursuance of said resolution, and accompanied by W. H. Rockingham, Engineer of State Department of Public Works, Owen Duffy, Superintendent, Napa State Farm, and Supervisor of Agriculture in Department of Institutions, and R. H. Jamison, Engineer Division of Water Rights, visited the premises, selected by the State, and submits the following facts, and recommendations:

The property is located in Cummings Valley, about nine miles from the town of Tehachapi, in the Tehachapi Mountains, and distant, approximately, fifty miles southeasterly from the city of Bakersfield; that the town of Tehachapi is the nearest point of transportation by rail; that the property is reached by a good road from Tehachapi.

Cummings Valley has an elevation of 3800 to 3900 feet above sea level: it has an area of about two miles in width by seven miles in length, surrounded by rugged hills, with a high mountain to the south four miles distant, thickly covered with timber, which furnishes a large watershed contributory to the valley.

The soil of the valley is of a sandy loam, and suitable for raising vegetables of all kinds, and fruits such as apples and pears.

WATER.

Your committee paid particular attention to the source and quantity of the water supply. There are two wells upon the premises, one at the lower end of the State tract, which was being pumped during the visit of the committee, delivering an estimated volume of 80 to 90 inches, and the committee was informed that this volume can be maintained by continuous pumping.

There is another well upon the premises, which was not tested by reason of not having a pump on the same, but which the committee was informed has produced, and is capable of producing at least 60 to 70 inches of water. This well, at the present time, has been sanded up by reason of silt from a surface overflow, and will require cleaning out to put it in use. The water is of good quality for domestic use.

Mr. W. H. Rockingham, Engineer of the State Department of Public Works, informed the committee it has been the experience in public institutions of the State that 150 gallons of water per day for each inmate is a safe basis in the estimate of quantity required for domestic use. The board of trustees of the institution estimates that the institution will ultimately have a capacity of 500 inmates. Upon the basis indicated, there is an abundance of water for the full capacity of such an institution, including water for irrigating such quantity of land as may be needed for the institution.

There is a flowing spring on the premises, furnishing a small amount of water. As to this spring, however, we find part of the water has for many years, and is now being diverted to other property, though no legal claim has been made to the right of diversion. The board of trustees should at once take steps to secure exclusive use of all the water flowing in this spring.

Your committee further reports that the place selected for the buildings is located over a wash of the valley, and upon poor soil, and is not a desirable location for the buildings. The committee recommends in this matter that the location of the buildings be changed to higher and more fertile ground which the committee indicated to members of the board of trustees, and which recommendation was approved by the members of the board of trustees present at viewing the site.

The committee further reports that by reason of the conformation of the surrounding country, the site is secluded from intrusion and away from highways, which is a desirable feature for an institution of this character, and that no better site could be selected in the State.

WHEREFORE, Your committee concludes that the site is available for the purposes of the act, creating the California Institution for Women, and is most admirably adapted for the same, and hereby recommends that the request directed to the Director of Public Works to withhold the award of contract for construction and improvement of said site be revoked to the end that the board of trustees may proceed with the improvement of the property.

That immediate steps should be taken by the board of trustees to remove any cloud on the title of the spring from which water is being diverted.

Respectfully submitted.

DUVAL, Chairman.
CARTER,
MORAN,
Committee.

Report read, and on motion of Senator Duval adopted.

By Senator Carter:

PETITION.

*To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

GENTLEMEN: The undersigned do hereby protest and oppose the passage of Senate Bills Nos. 362 and 363, known as the Weil-Sharkey bills, for the reason that such legislation is diametrically opposed to the public interest and welfare; that it is in derogation of existing property rights; that it is an attempt to repeal and control the law of supply and demand; that said proposed legislation constitutes a price-fixing structure which would submit the public to price-fixing by private corporations; that it would legalize monopoly and make available the processes of our courts to that end; that it would be detrimental to the welfare of the oil industry as a whole and the people of the State of California.

We beg that you respectively bring this communication to the attention of the Senate and Assembly.

EDWIN W. SANDERSON,

And 105 others.

SECOND READING OF ASSEMBLY BILLS—(OUT OF ORDER).

Assembly Bill No. 982—An act to amend section 4260 of the Political Code, relating to compensation of county and township officers in counties of the thirty-first class.

On motion of Senator Cassidy, Assembly Bill No. 982 was ordered re-referred to Committee on County Government.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The following opinion of the Attorney General was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Inman:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 4, 1931.

*Hon. J. M. Inman and Hon. Herbert C. Jones,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

GENTLEMEN: I have received your request for an opinion as to the constitutionality of section 9 (a) which is proposed to be submitted as an amendment to Senate Bill No. 362 relating to conservation of crude petroleum.

Section 9a provides in substance that whenever crude oil and/or gasoline shall have attained an "unreasonable wholesale price" complaint may be made to the Oil Conservation Commission, which commission shall at once order a hearing.

The section then provides:

"The commission shall determine whether or not in the interest of public policy, restrictions and proration then in effect on crude oil production in California shall, in full or in part, at once be suspended. If upon the hearing the commission finds that it would be beneficial in interest of public policy to suspend restrictions and proration, in full or in part, then said commission shall at once promulgate an order, such order to be made in the same manner and to have the same authority as is provided in the case of any other order of the commission, making effective its decision which order shall remain in full force and effect until such time as both crude and gasoline prices have respectively reached a reasonable price per barrel f.o.b. well and f.o.b. refinery, at which time prior restrictions and proration orders as affecting crude oil production shall be restored to full force and effect."

The particular question submitted for our opinion is whether in using the words "unreasonable wholesale price" the statute is so indefinite in its terms as to be void.

If this were a penal statute imposing a penalty upon those who sold crude petroleum at an "unreasonably" high price, it would clearly be unconstitutional.

Cline vs. Frick Dairy Co. 274 U. S. 445;

Small Co. vs. American Sugar Refining Co. 267 U. S. 233;

United States vs. Cohen Grocery Co. 255 U. S. 81.

While the bill does not in terms refer to an unreasonably high price, it is obvious that that is what is intended, as a reference to the later provisions thereof will disclose.

No penalty is provided in this section for selling at a higher price than is reasonable. The result of a determination by the commission that the price is unreasonable is the suspension, in whole or in part, of orders of the commission then in effect covering restrictions and proration. Nevertheless, it is apparent that before suspending such orders the commission must, in effect, at least, determine that an unreasonable wholesale price of crude petroleum or gasoline prevails. The question therefore is whether the commission can be given the power to make such a determination and to act accordingly.

As already stated, if this were a penal act it would be invalid. But since it is not a penal act but a regulatory measure, apparently designed to prevent unreasonable prices of crude petroleum and gasoline from becoming effective by reason of conservation measures taken or orders issued by the commission, the answer to the question is not so clear.

It is not only penal acts which may be invalid on the ground of uncertainty as to the offense which may be charged. Acts relating to civil matters may also be invalid on the ground of uncertainty or indefiniteness, or because there is no definition therein of conditions or standards whereby the existence of a requisite fact may be determined, or because no factors are established in the law by which to measure or test an act.

It must be conceded that in this section there is nothing to guide the commission in determining what is an "unreasonable" price for crude petroleum or gasoline.

In the case of Small Co. vs. American Sugar Refining Co., 267 U. S. 233, the court had under consideration sections 4, 5 and 6 of the Lever Act, 40 Stats. 276, as amended. The case was a suit for damages for breach of a contract to buy sugar. The defendant resisted the action on the ground that the plaintiff, in respect to the price of the sugar, had violated the provisions of the act. The plaintiff demurred to the answer and the demurrer was sustained on the ground that the act was in conflict with the fifth amendment to the constitution and void.

Section 4 of the act provided that it should be "unlawful for any person wilfully * * * to make any unjust or unreasonable * * * charge in * * * dealing in or with any necessities" or to agree with another "to exact excessive prices for any necessities."

The Supreme Court referred to its previous decisions in United States vs. Cohen Grocery Co., 255 U. S. 51, and Weeds, Inc. vs. United States, 255 U. S. 109, wherein it was held that the words "unreasonable" and "excessive" as applied to prices had no commonly recognized or accepted meaning, and then quoted from the Cohen case as follows:

"Observe that the section forbids no specific or definite act. It confines the subject matter of the investigation which it authorizes (by court and jury after the act) to no element essentially inhering in the transaction as to which it provides. It leaves open, therefore, the widest conceivable inquiry, the scope of which no one can foresee and the result of which no one can foreshadow or adequately guard against. In fact, we see no reason to doubt the soundness of the observation of the court below, in its opinion, to the effect that, to attempt to enforce the section would be the exact equivalent of an effort to carry out a statute which in terms merely penalized and punished all acts detrimental to the public interest when unjust and unreasonable in the estimation of the court and jury." (p. 239.)

That the statute was also bad regardless of its penal provisions and considered merely as a civil regulation was further decided by the court:

"The defendant attempts to distinguish those cases because they were criminal prosecutions. But that is not an adequate distinction. The ground or principle of the decisions was not such as to be applicable only to criminal prosecutions. It was not the criminal penalty that was held invalid, but the exaction of obedience to a rule or standard which was so vague and indefinite as really to be no rule or standard at all. Any other means of exaction, such as declaring the transaction unlawful or stripping a participant of his rights under it, was equally within the principle of those cases. They have been so construed and applied by other courts in civil proceedings. Standard Chemicals, etc., Corporation vs. Waugh Chemical Corporation, 231 N. Y. 51, 54; Dunman vs. South Texas Lumber Co., 252 S. W. 274, 275. In the first of these citations, the court of appeals of New York, referring to this court's ruling in the Cohen Grocery Company case, well said:

"The ground on which it placed its judgment applies, and with like consequences, to civil suits as well. The prohibition was declared a nullity because too vague to be intelligible. No standard of duty had been established. * * * The variant views of judges of the district courts were quoted as evidence of the absence of a standard. If this is the rationale of the decision, its consequences are not limited to criminal prosecutions. A prohibition so indefinite as to be unintelligible is not a prohibition by which conduct can be governed. It is not a rule at all; it is merely exhortation and entreaty." (pp. 239-240.)

"As section 4 was invalid, whether taken as a civil regulation or as a criminal statute, it follows that in so far as the special defenses were based on it the demurrers were rightly sustained." (p. 242.)

See also Atlantic Refining Co. vs. Trumbull, 43 Fed. (2nd) 154, and dissenting opinion in Frischer & Co. vs. Bakelite Corporation, 39 Fed. (2nd) 247.

In view of the decisions above referred to I am inclined to the opinion that the validity of the proposed section would be extremely doubtful. I believe, however, that the desired object could be attained by incorporating in the act a section reading substantially as follows:

"Sec. 9a. The commission may at any time, upon complaint made in writing to it by any person, firm, company, corporation or syndicate, or upon its own motion, and after a hearing held in the same manner as is provided herein for hearings upon complaints that waste of crude petroleum is being committed in this State, modify, suspend in whole or in part, or rescind any order theretofore made by it pursuant to the provisions of this act."

In this suggested amendment no reference is made to prices and therefore it is unnecessary for the commission to make any determination as to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of prevailing prices.

In connection with this same bill I have read your telegram of May 1st, reading as follows:

"Referring request opinion Senate Bill 362 please refer word reasonably lines 18, 24, page 2 and line 15 page 7 as now printed."

Lines 18 and 24 on page 2 occur in section 2 of the bill, which reads as follows:

"The term 'waste' as used herein shall include underground waste or destruction without beneficial use, surface waste or destruction without beneficial use, waste by reduction of the total quantity of recoverable crude petroleum oil in any underground source of supply by the careless or improper drilling or operation of wells, and the waste incident to or resulting from the production of crude petroleum oil when the current production together with the amount of crude petroleum oil and/or its products in storage exceeds the current requirements for use within and for shipment to points without the State, and for the maintenance in storage of such reserves of crude petroleum oil and/or its products as are reasonably necessary to meet and insure the continuity of an adequate supply of crude petroleum oil and/or its products for such current requirements. The loss by evaporation or leakage and the increased hazard or loss from fire and other causes resulting from the storage of crude petroleum oil and/or its products in excess of the quantities which are reasonably necessary to insure continuity of an adequate supply for such current requirements is waste within the meaning of this act."

Here again we are confronted with the fact that no standards, factors or rules are provided whereby the commission may be guided in determining what reserve of crude petroleum or its products is necessary to meet and insure the continuity of an adequate supply for current requirements.

In the absence of such standards, factors or rules, or of some other provisions contained in the statute whereby such determination can be logically arrived at, I am afraid this section would be subject to the same objection as has already been noted with reference to section 9a. In other words, the word "reasonably", unqualified as it is, is too uncertain and too indefinite, and it could very well be decided that an improper delegation of power to the commission was the result.

Section 5 and 6, which provide, respectively, for a hearing and for findings based thereon, likewise fail to furnish any basis for a determination of the question of the reasonableness of reserves.

I suggest that section 2 be amended to include certain rules or provisions whereby the commission may be guided in determining what constitutes a reserve reasonably necessary to meet current requirements.

Possibly the objection could be avoided by inserting at the appropriate place some such words as "in view of general average experience for the preceding twelve months, and in view of the probable requirements for the future based upon existing conditions and the best available information concerning such future requirements."

Line 15, page 7, occurs in section 4 of the bill, in a sentence reading as follows:

"It shall be the duty of the Oil Conservation Commission from time to time to inquire into the production of crude petroleum oil in this State and the extent of the current requirements for use within and for shipment to points without the State and of requirements for the maintenance in storage of such reserves as are reasonably necessary to meet and insure the continuity of an adequate supply of crude petroleum oil and/or its products for such requirements, in order to enable it to determine whether or not waste as hereinbefore defined exists."

I think that if this section contained the only reference to a "reasonable reserve" it might be objectionable for the reasons already stated. However, if section 2 is so amended as to provide a basis for determining what is a reasonable reserve, section 4 would probably not need to be changed.

In what has been said herein I am not unmindful of the distinction which exists between a statute which, like the Lever Act, makes a certain thing unlawful but fails of operation because no standard is prescribed by which a person may determine whether he is violating the act or not, and a statute which creates a fact finding commission, authorized to determine by a hearing the existence of a certain situation or state of facts, and upon such determination to make and impose certain orders consistent with such findings, as authorized by the statute.

Statutes of the latter class have frequently been upheld on the ground that the law-making body may declare a governmental policy and use executive officers in the application and enforcement of that policy by regulations equivalent to law.

Hampton, Jr. & Co. vs. United States, 276 U. S. 394.

Federal Trade Comm. vs. Eastman Kodak Co., 274 U. S. 619.

Frischer & Co. vs. Bakelite Corp., 39 Fed. (2d) 247.

In the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U. S. C. A. Sec. 45) the President of the United States is authorized, upon the recommendation of the commission, a fact-finding body, to forbid the entry of imports on the ground that such importation would constitute "unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States, or in their sale by the owner, consignee," etc.

The statute did not define what constituted "unfair methods" or "unfair acts."

In the Frischer case, supra, the court quoted from its decision in Hampton Jr. & Co. vs. United States, 14 Ct. Cust. App. 350, as follows (p. 253):

"Viewing said section 315 in the light of these authorities and its legislative history, it at once becomes evident that the Congress has endeavored to express therein a general legislative policy. This policy is to levy upon imported products sufficient duties to equanize the difference in cost of production in the United States and the principal competing countries from which such imports come. Under ordinary circumstances, the duties are those specifically named in the act; but, whenever these are insufficient to accomplish this expressed purpose, they shall be, within certain precautionary minima and maxima, increased or decreased accordingly. There is no uncertainty here as to the congressional intent and policy; no discretion is attempted to be given to the President to determine what the policy shall be; the law imposes upon him no duties and confers upon him no powers except to execute the law, if it be capable of execution. When the President proclaims a change of rate thereunder, the new rate of duty does not come into being as a result of the proclamation, but the proclamation and the rate of duty result from the law."

In Hampton Jr. & Co. vs. United States, 276 U. S. 394, the court said:

"It is conceded by counsel that Congress may use executive officers in the application and enforcement of a policy declared in law by Congress and authorize such officers in the application of the congressional declaration to enforce it by regulation equivalent to law. But it is said that this never has been permitted to be done where Congress has exercised the power to levy taxes and fix customs duties. The authorities make no such distinction. The same principle that permits Congress to exercise its rate-making power in interstate commerce by declaring the rule which shall prevail in the legislative fixing of rates, and enables it to remit to a rate-making body created in accordance with its provisions the fixing of such rates, justifies a similar provision for the fixing of customs duties on imported merchandise. If Congress shall lay down by legislative act an intelligible principle to which the person or body authorized to fix such rates is directed to conform, such legislative action is not a forbidden delegation of legislative power. If it is thought wise to vary the customs duties according to changing conditions of production at home and abroad, it may authorize the Chief Executive to carry out this purpose, with the advisory assistance of a tariff commission appointed under congressional authority."

But see strong dissenting opinion of Associate Judge Garrett of the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, in the Frischer case (39 Fed. 2d at page 261), wherein he attempts to distinguish the Hampton case and quotes from Federal Trade Commission vs. Gratz, 253 U. S. 421, as follows:

"The words 'unfair method of competition' are not defined by the statute and their exact meaning is in dispute. It is for the courts, not the commission, ultimately to determine as matter of law what they include."

Judge Garrett also expressed the opinion that the Cohen, Weeds, and Small Company cases, supra, presented authority decidedly more applicable to the Frischer case than was the reasoning in the Hampton case.

Unquestionably many other cases having a bearing on this discussion could be found, but considering the very limited time allowed me in which to consider this matter, and in view of the conclusions arrived at, I deem it unnecessary to discuss further cases.

There is sufficient doubt in my mind as to the constitutionality of the bill as now framed to make it advisable, in my judgment, to incorporate in the bill some further amendments along the lines herein suggested. Such changes will not, in my opinion, endanger the act, but may have the effect of strengthening it and rendering it less subject to attack on the ground of unconstitutionality.

This discussion would not be complete without a reference to two very recent cases. Those cases, however, are not decisive of the point here involved owing to a difference in the language of the statute there considered and the one under consideration here.

In the case of People vs. Associated Oil Co., 80 Cal. Dec. 607, decided December 3, 1930, our Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the Gas Conservation Act (Stats. 1915, p. 1404, as amended by Stats. 1929, p. 923).

Section 86 of that act, as amended in 1929, reads as follows:

"The unreasonable waste of natural gas by the act, omission, sufferance or insistence of the lessor, lessee or operator of any land containing oil or gas, or both, whether before or after the removal of gasoline from such natural gas, is hereby declared to be opposed to the public interest and is hereby prohibited and declared to be unlawful. The blowing, release or escape of natural gas into the air shall be prima facie evidence of unreasonable waste." (Stats. 1929, p. 927.)

One of the contentions in that case was that the act was unconstitutional because the provision declaring the "unreasonable waste" of gas to be unlawful was so vague, uncertain and indefinite as to be devoid of any guide or standard as to what constitutes reasonable or unreasonable waste of natural gas.

The court called attention to section 8d of the act which provides that "if it shall appear that gas is being produced from any oil well or wells in quantities exceeding a reasonable proportion to the amount of oil produced from the same well or wells * * * the State Oil and Gas Supervisor shall hold that such excess production of gas is unreasonable waste thereof if such holding will not cause an unreasonable waste of gas in any other field", and then said:

"It would seem, therefore, that the Legislature has plainly adopted the standard so expressed, viz: that gas may not be produced, under existing conditions where the production thereof so greatly exceeds the market demand therefore, in quantities exceeding a reasonable proportion to the amount of oil produced, as the standard to be applied and beyond which the production is prohibited as being an unreasonable waste of natural gas.

The standard so adopted by the Legislature is, we think, not objectionable as being too vague or uncertain of application."

The court further said:

"The adoption, therefore, of such a measure seems to us to be within the scope of cases upholding other legislative enactments which have employed the so-called 'rule of reason.' Citation of authority is not necessary to support the statement that the standard of reason has been applied in many cases where certainty is less capable of measurement than in the present case, for instance, in the statutes prohibiting unreasonable restraints of trade, the common law rule of a reasonable use of water by riparian owners, the rule of law regulating the duty of care, etc. Instances where a man's fate depends on his estimating rightly, that is, as the jury subsequently estimates it, some matter of degree, are common. (See Nash vs. United States, 229 U. S. 373, 377.)"

Cases involving "unjust" or "unreasonable prices" and similar cases were distinguished by the court and it was then said:

"The argument is made that the same conclusion must be reached in respect to the standard of reasonableness required by the present statute, for the reason that the standards applying the 'rule of reason' in cases said to be analogous have been gleaned from or formulated by previous legislation or by many prior decisions or are within the common experience of mankind. But this argument is not persuasive when it may be said that scientific knowledge and oil and gas operating experience have achieved a similar degree of certainty in the field in which the present standard will apply. Whether the evidence sustains the ratio applied by the court in this case under such standard is a question on the merits of the appeal and is not pertinent to a determination of the merits of this application."

The important thing to be noted here is that the Gas Conservation Act did establish a certain standard by which the question of an unreasonable wastage of natural gas could be determined. In the act which we are here considering no standard is fixed.

In the case of Bandini Petroleum Company vs. Superior Court, 63 Cal. App. Dec. 1175, the same statute was under consideration and the same objection was made to its validity. The District Court of Appeal ruled against the contention, saying:

"As we have heretofore observed, the Indiana statutes prohibited all waste, and the United States Supreme Court concluded it to be a proper exercise of the legislative authority despite the argument that the owners of the surface were entitled to make use of its force to raise the oil from beneath the ground. Undoubtedly the Legislature had in mind the Indiana statute and its construction, as well as others from other oil producing states. It would seem to logically follow that they made use of the word unreasonable for the very purpose of providing that the operators of a well might utilize a reasonable proportion of gas for the purpose of lifting the oil to the surface. This thought coincides with that indicated by the language we have already quoted to the effect that it shall be held to be an unreasonable waste of gas for one to produce gas in excess of a reasonable proportion to the amount of oil produced,' when such gas is not conveniently necessary for other than lifting purposes. When viewed in this light we think the word unreasonable is not so uncertain as to render the enactment void and inoperative. In fact, our courts have frequently applied the rule of reasonable use between riparian owners where similar correlative rights are involved. We have already cited the case of Eckel vs. Springfield Tunnel, Etc. Co., and Ex Parte Elam, and to these we may add the following: Irrigation Dist. vs. Mt. Shasta P. Corp., 202 Cal. 56, 259 Pac. 444; Turner vs. The James Canal Co., 155 Cal. 82, 99 Pac. 520."

This case is now on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Other cases involving statutes prohibiting the unlawful waste of natural products are:

Ohio Oil Co. vs. Indiana, 177 U. S. 190.

Commonwealth vs. Trent, 117 Ky. 23, 4 Ann. Cas. 209.

Walls vs. Midland Carbon Co. (Wyo.), 254 U. S. 300.

PRESENTATION OF PETITION—(OUT OF ORDER).

The following petition was presented, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Clock:

Resolution Adopted Unanimously by the Federation of State Societies.

WHEREAS, Owing to greatly depressed business conditions causing millions of men and women to be out of employment thereby throwing a great financial burden upon the taxpayer; and

WHEREAS, Heavy taxes and special assessments and a depreciated income are working a terrible hardship on many small property owners, a large percentage of whom find the burden too much of a financial strain, and are being deprived of their homes and property under foreclosure; and

WHEREAS, A concentrated effort is being made by interested persons to induce the present Legislature to increase the salaries of various State, county and other officials in the face of the fact that there has been a steady decrease in the income of the average person, and the cost of living has been considerably reduced; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this organization that there should be no increase in any of the salaries to be paid by the taxpayers of this State, and that the present time is particularly inopportune for such increase to be made, and the Legislature is respectfully urged to defeat all acts providing for any such increase, as a matter of common justice to the taxpayers of the State.

I. C. H. PARSONS, Secretary of the Federation of State Societies, do hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was unanimously adopted at a largely attended meeting of the said society held on the fourth day of May, 1931.

WITNESS my hand and official seal this, the fifth day of May, 1931.

[SEAL]

C. H. PARSONS,
Secretary of the Federation of State Societies.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received, read, and on motion of Senator Swing, ordered printed in the Journal:

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA, April 29, 1931.

Senator Ralph E. Swing.

DEAR SIR: Yes, it is a laudable plan to give our teachers a pension, but what I and hundreds of thousands just like me want to know is just where this pension business is going to end? Where it should end is by giving all of the aged a pension, but if we can not do that, why should one class of the people pay taxes to pension another class? They tell us we should have saved our money when we were young, and I say there is no reason why teachers could not have done just that as well as I. My work in the world has been just as important to the people at large and just as necessary as the teachers', and on the whole I have worked for less pay. I have raised seven children for the teachers to teach, and just why I should be taxed in my old age to give teachers a pension is the thing many of us are trying to find out. There are teachers' pensions, postal pensions and civil service pensions of various kinds. Then there is, greatest of all, the soldiers' pensions and bonuses, and a thousand and one more. Where, again in common fairness, is all of this pension going to end. I tell you it will not end as long as there is an axe to grind or until the people rebel, and when we do we are going to have something to say. The next pension we will be asked to pay will be a pension to the dried egg manufacturers of China who are swindling the American farmers and poultry men. We can get nothing to help us as we are fighting with our backs to the wall, trying to save ourselves on 15-cent eggs and then asked to pay more pension to someone that is making twice as much as we are. If I could have half of the money our teachers are getting I wouldn't need a pension, nor would I ask for it. The assessor was here today, and from the way he assessed me someone ought to have a pension.

Respectfully,

Care Moreno Stage, Riverside, California.

G. A. ENGLISH.

Hon. Ralph D. Swing, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SENATOR SWING: In view of the situation of excessive taxation and the unjust action of the California Teachers Association in an attempt to approximately double the teachers' pension or so-called teachers' retirement salary, a feeling of intense indignation is arising among the taxpayers, and especially among the farmers, that even an attempt should be made to pass the act at the present session of the State Legislature. Approximately over 60 per cent, so I am informed, of all the State taxes go to the public school fund, and most of such funds are used in payment of teachers' salaries. The assertion that the teachers pay for the retirement salary is not true, for in 30 years each pays in only $360 and at the end of 30 years each receives $500 per year. Now they want, practically, to double their pension!! As an ex-superintendent of city public schools and a burdened taxpayer, I file a vigorous protest against such action. If the act be passed our legislators will surely hear from the farmers at the next election.

Respectfully,

CYRUS N. ANDREWS.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA. April 8, 1931.

Honorable Members of State Finance Committee, State Senate, Sacramento, California.

HONORABLE SIR: It seems to me, and many persons with whom I have talked, that it is unjust to place upon the taxpayers an added burden of $3,844,000 a year to pay teachers' retirement salary. Teachers now are the best paid class in California. They begin at $140 a month and advance to $244 in Los Angeles city elementary schools, and high school teachers more.

Thousands of men work for $120 to $170, and are supporting a wife and babies and trying to pay out on a little home and are taxed to help pay the retirement salary of teachers who are better paid than they are.

This retirement bill should be defeated in the interest of burdened taxpayers.

Very truly,

A. H. JAMES.

The question being on the passage of the bill.

The roll was called; and Senate Bill No. 260 refused passage by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Allen, Christian, Cleveland, Evans, Harper, Inman, Jones, Maloney, Pedrotti, Rochester, Treacy, and Tubbs—12.

NOES—Senators Baker, Breed, Bush, Carter, Cassidy, Crittenden, Duval, Edwards, Fellom, Hays, Ingels, McCormack, McKinley, Mixer, Moran, Nelson, Rich, Riley, Schottky, Sharkey, Slater, Swing, Waggy, and Williams—25.

PRESENTATION OF PETITION—(OUT OF ORDER).

The following petition was presented, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Inman:

(COPY)

WHEREAS, At a meeting of the Pacific American Steamship Association held March 27, 1931, a resolution was adopted endorsing Senate Bill No. 580 and Assembly Bill No. 1233 in amended form, with recommendation for the passage of these bills by the California State Legislature, and that a copy of the resolution be filed with the Committees of Commerce and Navigation, as the most effective means of control and future development of the harbor of San Francisco; and

WHEREAS, The purpose of the association in endorsing said bills was to perpetuate the present satisfactory control and development of the harbor of San Francisco by the State of California; and

WHEREAS, There were certain features of the said bills which were objectionable to members of this association but which objections the members were willing to waive in view of the great urgency for retaining the control of the harbor in the State; and

WHEREAS, The association is now of the opinion that control of the harbor in the State will be preserved without the passage of these bills; and

WHEREAS, At the same meeting a further resolution was adopted opposing Assembly Bill No. 467, in that said bill would take the harbor away from the State control under which it has been developed and operated in a most efficient manner, be it

Resolved. That the Pacific American Steamship Association hereby withdraws its prior endorsement of Senate Bill No. 580 and Assembly Bill No. 1233 in amended form, and now proclaims its position as being unalterably opposed to any legislation which would remove control of the port from its present satisfactory administration by the State, and therefore strongly urges that the California State Legislature does not pass either of these bills; and be it further

Resolved. That a copy of this resolution be filed with the Senators, the Committee of Commerce and Navigation and the Governor, and that this association reaffirms its prior resolution opposing Assembly Bill No. 467.

The above resolution was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Pacific American Steamship Association held May 5, 1931.

REPORT OF SENATE SPECIAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE ON WATER SITUATION IN INYO AND MONO COUNTIES.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate.

Your committee appointed by virtue of the following resolution, to wit:

"WHEREAS, The city of Los Angeles has diverted and appropriated certain waters of Inyo County and Mono County to the use and benefit of the city of Los Angeles and in the course of such diversion and appropriation has condemned certain lands; and

WHEREAS, It has been represented that the taking of said waters has resulted in the depreciation of the value of certain lands owned by individuals and a reduction of the revenues of the county derived from the taxation of such lands; and

WHEREAS, It may be necessary and advisable during the forty-ninth session of the Legislature to take some action relative to the conditions which have thus arisen; and

WHEREAS, It is advisable that a committee be appointed to study these matters, and to report back its findings, and to make such recommendations concerning legislation in connection therewith as it may deem desirable; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That said committee may incur expenses necessary to its investigations in a sum not to exceed $2,000 to be paid from the Contingent Fund of the Senate.

Resolved, further, That said committee shall proceed at once to organize by the election of one of its members as chairman and one as secretary, and proceed with said investigation in the manner to be determined by said committee.

Resolved, further, That said committee is hereby authorized and empowered to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters, objects, and conditions hereinabove referred to; to hold meetings and hearings anywhere in the State and shall hold meetings and hearings in Inyo and in Mono counties; to require the production of persons, books, documents, records and papers; to issue subpoenas; to compel the attendance of witnesses and procure the testimony thereof; and each of the members of said committee is hereby authorized to administer oaths; all of the provisions of article VIII of chapter 2, title I, part III of the Political Code relative to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof shall apply to the committee appointed under this resolution.

Resolved, further. That said committee is hereby given leave to sit during the session of the Legislature at the Capitol or at such other place as the committee, from time to time, may designate, beg leave to report as follows:

Your committee met pursuant to said resolution, organized, arranged for and made an inspection tour of Inyo and Mono counties, held hearings and took testimony and heard complaints from all interested parties.

Hearings were held at Lone Pine, Independence and Bishop, in Inyo County, at Leeving, in Mono County, and at Sacramento.

The committee made an inspection tour in Owens Valley, including the town of Big Pine and the agricultural section in both the vicinity of Big Pine and of Bishop; and it also made an inspection tour in the Mono Basin.

Testimony taken at such hearings is filed with this report, together with exhibits introduced by various complainants and by the city of Los Angeles, and is accessible to your honorable body.

From the testimony taken and the investigations made, the committee finds as follows:

Findings.

The situation existing in the Owens River Valley, Inyo County, is very different from that of the Mono Basin in Mono County, and, therefore, we deal with these two situations separately.

The Owens River Valley is situated east and almost in the shadow of the lofty Sierra Nevada mountains. The snows from these mountains furnish an abundant supply of clear, pure mountain water, which reaches the valley through various creeks and make up the supply for Owens River. This water formerly found its way into Owens Lake, which, at one time, was a large body of water in the southern end of the valley.

The soil of this valley is exceedingly fertile, when irrigated, and raises valuable crops of alfalfa, grain, fruits and vegetables, and it furnishes abundant pasturage for cattle, and has been cultivated since 1860, continuously. The land, without water, will become barren and worthless and revert to sand and sagebrush, its former state.

The evidence shows that about the year 1860, the settlers moved into this valley, endured the dangers and privations attendant to pioneer life, improving the land, taking the water from the high Sierra for irrigation. Soon Owens Valley blossomed forth as one of the richest agricultural sections of the State of California. Several hundred farms and farm houses dotted its green meadows.

Thousands of head of cattle grazed in its fields. Valuable crops of hay and grain were produced, and hundreds of acres were planted to productive orchards of peaches, pears, apples and other deciduous fruits. The climatic condition, the fertile land and the natural beauty of the scenery made of this valley a veritable paradise.

Towns sprang up in the valley, supported and sustained by the rich farming areas. Bishop became the principal business center, and had, at one time, a population of approximately 2500. Independence, the county seat, Big Pine, Lone Pine and Laws were flourishing communities, and, in addition to these, were other smaller trade centers. All these communities were surrounded by rich agricultural lands that produced a large revenue. Testimony shows that up to the year 1923 each one of these towns did an enormous business with the agricultural elements.

These towns grew and flourished because of the agricultural development of the valley, and this development was made possible by the ample supply of water from the mountains on the west side of the valley. Substantial business houses of a permanent character were erected in these towns. Beautiful residences, comparable to those in other towns of California were built and occupied. Business flourished. Public buildings that would be a credit to any town or to any county were erected in the various communities; in short, Owens Valley became one of the most prosperous and beautiful agricultural sections of the State of California.

Testimony shows that in about the year 1904, the growing city of Los Angeles, realizing that the future prosperity of that city depended upon an abundant supply of pure water for domestic, industrial and municipal uses, began the task of building of the vast aqueduct a distance of nearly three hundred miles, to carry these waters to the city of Los Angeles. Prior to the construction of the aqueduct, the city of Los Angeles sent its agents into Owens Valley and began purchasing lands in order to secure the water rights appurtenant to these lands. This process continued until, at the present time, the city of Los Angeles owns about 90 per cent of the lands in the valley. The city of Los Angeles buys the lands for the water only, and the water is taken into the aqueduct. The rich lands formerly irrigated by this water are dried up and allowed to return to desert conditions. Orchards are torn up, buildings are torn down or burned, and, in a short time, lands that were rich and productive have returned to their former condition.

In addition to taking the surface water, the city of Los Angeles has put down a series of wells in the valley, approximately 150 in number. These wells are pumping constantly, and the water from them augments the supply of the aqueduct. In this manner, the underground water table of the valley has been lowered to the point where Owens Valley is drying up. Owens Lake is already dry, and what was once the lake bed is now a shifting body of alkali, soda, sand and dust.

The damage wrought by the taking of these waters is apparent. The farming lands purchased by the city of Los Angeles are reverting to desert. The lands not yet purchased are suffering from the shortage of water due to the exhaustion of the subsurface water by the pumping and drainage carried on by the city of Los Angeles. The former occupants of these lands have migrated to other portions of the State and the west. The few remaining landowners find themselves confronted with a condition of isolation. Their neighbors are gone. Their local markets are gone, and most of their ranches are being surrounded by complete desolation.

The remaining landowners now realize that they can not hold their lands and farms, and that they can not prosper without cooperative neighbors.

Damage to business houses and property in the towns that were supported or were dependent upon the farm areas is very apparent. These towns are dwindling away. With the farming lands which caused the towns to prosper gone, the towns are gradually dying. Business is lost. Residences must be abandoned. Most of these people must leave everything they have and go elsewhere to earn a livelihood. The water which sustained and gave life to the valley has been and is being taken out of the valley.

Your committee also found a condition existing as to the town of Keeler entirely different from that of the other part of the valley. Keeler is situated on the eastern edge of what was formerly Owens Lake. The lake now being dry, a vast body of alkali, soda and sand is whirled about by the valley winds and into the former prosperous town of Keeler, clouding the air and filling the roads and streets with sands not unlike drifted snow. Dust and dirt sift through the crevices in doors and windows and cover floors and furniture, making life at Keeler practically unbearable. The body of water formerly in Owens Lake moderated the temperature, but, as it is now dry, the summer heat is almost intolerable.

We find that the people of the city of Los Angeles have fully realized the condition being brought about in Owens Valley, and have demonstrated their desire to be fair to the water and landowners there. They have, from time to time, voted bonds to carry on the construction and operation of the aqueduct, and in May, 1930, voted a further sum of $38,000,000, by the majority of nine to one, for the purchase of all the water rights in the Mono Basin and in Owens Valley, and the construction of suitable transportation facilities with which to carry it to Los Angeles.

The committee found, from the testimony presented to it, that the most powerful argument to the voters of Los Angeles was the statement, on the part of the public service board of Los Angeles, that practically half of this sum of $38,000,000 was for the purpose of "cleaning up the situation in Owens Valley."

The committee finds that the city of Los Angeles has entrusted the handling of negotiations with the water and landowners to its department known as the bureau of water works and supply. This bureau has carried on the purchase of the farm lands having valuable water rights. The process of purchase continued, and it soon became apparent that if the farm lands were allowed to return to desert, the towns could not survive. The testimony shows that the agents in charge of the bureau of waterworks and supply promised the towns of the valley that at least 50,000 acres of the irrigated land in the Bishop and Big Pine area would not be purchased, but would be allowed to remain in private ownership. It was soon found that this promise could not be kept. It was also found that the operation of pumps and drainage was lowering the water table to the extent that it has affected all of the lands in the valley.

Your committee finds that the city of Los Angeles, in purchasing farm lands, has, in most cases, paid a fair price for the property. As the city of Los Angeles bought the land in order to acquire the water only, this committee was unable to fix the value of the water and the water rights purchased.

When it appeared that all of the farms would have to be acquired, the bureau of waterworks and supply appointed a board of appraisers to make appraisals of all the farm lands of the valley. This board was made up of employees of the bureau of waterworks and supply. Testimony showed that their appraisals were based upon the prices paid by the city for other lands of similar character.

These appraisals in most cases seem fair to your committee, the prices paid for farm lands ranging from $300 to $1,000 per acre. In every case, the high price was for small acreage with expensive improvements. The appraisals thus made by this board were accepted by the city. In one instance, the city appointed one, the farmers one, and the two selected a third appraiser, which board, operating as a duly appointed board, arrived at a figure which was accepted by both parties.

In some instances, the farm-owners have not accepted the bureau of waterworks and supply appraisals. In many instances, testimony showed that no negotiations of any kind have been carried on with certain other owners.

The testimony showed that early in the controversy property owners began to consider the injuries to business in the declining towns, and presented this phase of the difficulty to the city, but without avail. The committee finds that the Reparations Act of 1925 was passed by the Legislature in order to set up the principle of damage to business as property and the rights of the business and property owners of the towns to their claims for damages. After the passage of this act, appraisal of property in the towns was begun.

Your committee finds that the appraisal of water-owned lands in the town has caused little or no trouble. We also find that the appraisals and offers made on residential property in the town, as a whole, are fair.

There seems to have been no uniform or equitable basis for these appraisals. Some property of one character in the town apparently was appraised on a cash price, and other property, similarly as good and in the same situation, was appraised on low bids. This has caused considerable trouble. Your committee finds that the appraisal of business property and the claims for business losses have been a constant source of trouble, and that much of the trouble that now exists has grown out of these appraisals.

Testimony showed that the turning of waterworks and supply of the city of Los Angeles has steadily refused to consider on any matter, the claims of the town of Kettle for damages.

Testimony shows that the turning of waterworks and supply of the city of Los Angeles has refused to consider the loss of goods, will or the business losses in fixing prices of business property; that they have refused to consider or meet every case, the purchase of equipment and fixtures used in the business; that they have delayed and put off negotiations with the water and landowners of the town, particularly the towns, thereby causing anxiety and dissension; that they have further extended the situation by refusing persons with whom even were dealing to sign a certain action form containing provisions that your committee believes would be objectionable to any business man. This action contains the following language:

"It is further understood and agreed that the applicant will execute and deliver in return a certain release and declaration, covering and discharging the city of Los Angeles, its municipal corporation, the department of water and power and board of water and power commissioners of said city, of and from each and every claim, demand, liability or cause of action which the applicant now has, or may have in the future against or against any of the members of the committee of the town having described, or of any part or parts thereof, or any member thereof, or of any water or water right or the right to the use of water thereon, owned, owned or possessed now or hereafter, or which may hereafter be owned, owned or possessed by the applicant by release of any property right or interest in the whole or any part of said lands; and also from and every claim, demand, liability or cause of action which said applicant now has, or may have in the future for damages for injury to, or decrease in the value of any business, business, trade, profession or occupation, resulting from and on lands or situated on the water; and any claim for damages for damages under or by virtue of the terms of Chapter 109, Statutes of California 1925, found as yet unenacted, known and presented as Reparatious Act and the contract with or with respect to release and satisfaction, in consideration that each and every of said claims, demands, liabilities or causes of action as herein mentioned, now have, and each one thereof has been fully and completely satisfied, paid and discharged, paid, paid, further, that in the event that any such claim or claims have been asserted to any person, firm, corporation or association, then, and in that event, the applicant will deliver and execute a certain release and declaration and satisfaction, as to each assigned claim or claims assigned to each person or persons. The applicant will also deliver in return an affidavit duly acknowledged before a notary public, stating that such releases have been executed by all persons in any manner whatsoever authorized by said water or demand; and will also waive any right which he now has or may hereafter acquire to claim in the waterworks and subsequent damages and transportation to or use in the city of Los Angeles or delivery of water from the lands heretofore described or from any part or parts thereof, or from other lands not herein described lying within the same watershed."

It is further understood and agreed that the applicant will cause to be delivered in return a declaration with provision of all persons and proceedings in law or in equity in which the applicant is seeking to enforce any claim or right or cause of action against the city and or department and or board."

Mono Basin.

Your committee held a hearing at Livermore, and finds as follows:

Mono Basin is of good high altitude, about 10,000 feet, and the lands are devoted more to cattle raising. These lands are irrigated by a limited supply of water coming from the Sierra Nevada mountains. Without this water, the basin is worthless. The present owner of the basin is Livermore, and there are many large and smaller resorts. The city of Los Angeles is just beginning to extend its system into Mono Basin, and its residents will undoubtedly turn to the water from this basin, as it did in Owens Valley. The committee learned that when the city of Los Angeles determined to extend its system into Mono Basin, the nature of the city and other officials informed the water and landowners and the residents of the value of the water to "save their farms." Testimony shows that these representatives they intended to "save their farms." Testimony shows that these representatives of the city stated that it would not be necessary for the property owners and residents of Mono Basin to employ engineers, but that all should be settled, or would be settled peacefully and amicably. Testimony shows that, notwithstanding these promises, the without opening any negotiations with any of the water and landowners of the Mono Basin for the purchase of their lands and the settlement of their claims for damages, the city of Los Angeles filed condemnation suits against all the property owners in the Mono Basin and also filed, at the same time, notices of lis pendens, which created a cloud on the title of all property covered thereby.

Your committee finds that these suits have made it necessary for the property owners to employ attorneys and engineers; that the prosecution of these suits has been delayed and postponed, greatly impairing the credit of the property owners and making it difficult for them to either sell their property or to borrow money on their lands.

Your committee heard testimony to show that the long-continued delay has resulted in very greatly increased expense to the city of Los Angeles, and that speedy adjustment would thereby effect a great saving to the city of Los Angeles, not only in prices to be paid for property and business losses, but in pay rolls, legal expenses and other miscellaneous expenses almost or quite sufficient to cover the increases asked, to say nothing of the determinate loss in good will.

Recommendations.

From the foregoing facts and findings, your committee makes the following recommendations:

1. Your committee recommends that the city of Los Angeles proceed at once to complete the purchase of all the water and lands in Owens Valley.

2. Your committee believes that the owners of business property are entitled to just compensation and should be reimbursed for the loss of good will, for their business losses, and for the loss of their fixtures and equipment used in their business.

3. Your committee recommends that the city of Los Angeles proceed at once to ascertain the difference, if any, in the prices offered and in those that are acceptable, and your committee believes that the difference, in most cases, is so small that a quick settlement can be reached, if an honest effort is made to effect such an adjustment. Testimony showed that if an honest effort is made towards settlement in the town of Bishop, and such were effected within approximately sixty days, a sum less than $500,000 would cover the entire difference between the price offered and the price asked, not only in the town of Bishop, but in all the towns of Owens Valley. This is not a great deal more than has been offered.

4. Your committee believes that the form of option that the city of Los Angeles has required property owners to sign is objectionable in its terms, unreasonable, and has been and will continue to be a constant source of trouble and delay, and that it should be abandoned; that an agreement should be made with each individual, covering each individual case, without attempt to apply a stereotyped form of option agreement to a situation which has so many different angles.

5. Your committee finds that the city of Los Angeles because of its wealth and power and because it is a municipal corporation having the power of eminent domain as contrasted with that of the farmers and other property owners of Mono Basin, who are, in the majority of cases, people of small means and influence, by resorting to a proposed forcible taking of said lands and waters through condemnation proceedings rather than by the ordinary practice of negotiation and agreements. In order to avoid a situation in Mono Basin such as exists in Owens Valley, your committee recommends that negotiations for the purchase of said lands and water rights be expedited, and that, in case of failure of said negotiations to bring about an amicable settlement, the condemnation suits be diligently prosecuted to a finish, and that the lien on said property created by said condemnation proceedings shall be removed at the earliest possible date.

6. Your committee recommends that the State of California enact legislation similar to that of the state of New York, which was confronted with this identical situation in the extension of the water systems of New York City, and by the city of Rochester. To take care of a similar situation that existed in that city, in order to be fair to the rural communities, New York state enacted a law which requires any municipality proposing to extend its water system to any watershed outside of the municipality, for the purpose of supplying the inhabitants of such municipality with domestic water, to first submit its plans and specifications to a duly authorized water commission; all persons damaged directly or indirectly by the extension of said water system, including those inhabitants of towns sustaining business losses, to file their claims with the commission; if any of said claims are disputed, to provide for a determination and adjudication of said claims before the municipality is given any right to extend its system.

Your committee believes that if a similar statute were enacted in California, a situation such as now exists in the Owens Valley and Mono Basin would be avoided.

7. Your committee also recommends that the law as it now exists giving the plaintiff the right to have a condemnation suit removed from the county in which the land and water sought to be condemned is situated, compelling the defendant land owner to take his witnesses and defend his case in some distant county, at great inconvenience and expense to him, should be amended so that the plaintiff would not have the right to insist on a change of venue, unless the plaintiff could show that it was impossible for it to secure a fair trial in the county in which the land is situated, and, in such case, the plaintiff should be required to advance all costs and expenses of the defendant, to the end that the defendant would not suffer any loss by reason of it.

Respectfully submitted.

COMMUNICATION FROM ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The following communication from the Attorney General was received, read, and on motion of Senator Inman, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, May 7, 1931.

*Hon. Joseph A. Beck, Secretary of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIR: In yours of the fifth inst., you advise of the action of the Senate in directing you to submit to this office Senate Bill No. 234, and of the Senate's desire to have the views of this office upon the following two questions:

1. Can the Legislature, by a bill, submit a question to the people?
2. What, if any, legal effect would such a referendum, if found permissible under query 1, have?

Your letter also calls attention to the necessity of an early reply. With your letter you transmit a copy of Senate Bill No. 234, section 1 of which reads as follows:

"SECTION 1. There shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of California at the next general election, or at such special election as may precede the next general election, the question as to retaining, repealing or modifying the eighteenth amendment as a part of the constitution of the United States. The vote on this question shall be merely of an advisory nature."

While section 2 specifies the questions that it is proposed to submit to the electorate. That section is:

"SEC. 2. There shall be printed on the ballots at such general or special election the words 'For the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States,' the words 'For modification of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States,' and the words 'Against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.' The general provisions of law relating to the conduct and the returns of elections apply to the vote on this question."

The remaining portions of the bill deal with matters not involved in these questions. There are undoubtedly many questions which could not by the Legislature be legally submitted to a vote of the people. It is very doubtful if the Legislature could legally submit to a vote of the people any question in reference to which in some fashion the Legislature had not the power to act. I can not conceive of the existence of the power to call for the expenditure of public money through the holding of an election to secure an expression of the people upon a question in reference to which no action whatever could be taken by the Legislature.

But the question quoted from your letter must be considered as referring to the questions which the bill proposes to submit to the people. The questions which the bill proposes to submit to the electorate are:

"1. For the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States";

"2. For modification of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States"; and

"3. Against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States."

If these questions may be submitted to the electorate as proposed by this bill the power so to do must arise because there is some action which may be taken by the Legislature relative to amendment of the constitution of the United States.

The constitution of the United States within itself provides the methods through which it may be amended. Article V of the constitution of the United States provides for the amendment of that instrument. Two methods are thus provided.

The Congress of the United States, by the affirmative action of two-thirds of both houses may propose an amendment to the federal constitution, and such proposal shall accomplish the proposed change in the constitution "when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states," or when the same has been approved "by conventions in three-fourths" of the states. The other method requires Congress to "call a convention for proposing amendments" when an application to Congress so to do is made by "the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states."

When the amendment is proposed in this fashion, it becomes an effective part of the constitution in the same manner as if proposed directly by Congress, namely, upon its ratification "by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof."

It will thus be seen that the Legislature of the State may, jointly with other states, cause a convention to be called, which convention may propose amendments to the constitution. Whether the proposal to amend the constitution comes directly from Congress or from the convention called as in the constitution provided, the proposal can become a part of the constitution only when ratified by the legislatures of the required number of states or by conventions held in the required number of states.

The amendment of the federal constitution in any particular is a legitimate subject for legislative consideration. The Legislature may determine to attempt to cause the federal constitution to be amended in any particular by its appeal to Congress and in the event that the proposal to amend the constitution is made the proposal may be submitted to the Legislature for its action.

It results that amendment to the federal constitution is a legitimate subject for legislative consideration and one in reference to which the Legislature may be called upon officially to act.

Legislative action reflects or should reflect the will and wish of the people of the State. I conceive it to be proper that the Legislature should use all legitimate means to advise itself in reference to the will of the people of the State.

At practically every session of the Legislature of the State one or more fact-finding commissions or committees are provided for to function at public expense and directed to make specific investigations and to report the result of their labors to a succeeding Legislature or to the Governor, or to both. Questions as to the legality of such action no longer exist.

The method of obtaining an expression of the views of the electorate of the State by submitting questions at elections is one not frequently used in this State or elsewhere, but it is my view that it may be legally done where the information sought is upon a question which lies within the domain of legislation. I conclude that the questions proposed in Senate Bill No. 234 may be submitted to the electorate of the State in the manner therein provided. In reaching this conclusion, little, if any, aid has been obtained from adjudicated cases. It may be worthy of note that this method of obtaining an expression of the people's view has been recently resorted to in other states but the legality of such action has not come before the courts for determination. Seemingly, in those states the legality of such action has not been challenged.

Your second question presents less difficulty. It is:

"What, if any, legal effect would such a referendum, if found permissible under query 1, have?"

The question substantially answers itself. It would furnish to subsequent Legislatures the view in reference to the three questions submitted to the electorate entertained by the qualified voters of the State who chose to vote thereon and no subsequent Legislature would be required to act in accord with the vote of the majority or to take any action at all. The result of the vote would be but advisory. It would perhaps be expected that subsequent Legislatures would pay some heed to the result of the information so obtained at public expense but they would not be required so to do.

Respectfully submitted.

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.

RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, The State revenues for the biennial period commencing July 1, 1931, will not be sufficient by $10,000,000 to meet the State expenditures for that period; and

WHEREAS, The State revenue derived from bank taxes fell from $4,700,000 in 1928 to $550,000 in 1929, and $908,000 in 1930, a loss in State revenue for the two years of $7,942,000; and

WHEREAS, The report of the California Tax Commission of 1927-28 set forth that on the basis of the 1.73 ad valorem rate levied against general property, the gas and electric companies would have been paying a 10.25 per cent gross income tax instead of the 7.5 per cent tax actually paid, the difference in the State revenues actually collected under the lower rate and those that would have been collected under the higher rate being $10,052,593 for the years 1929-30; and

WHEREAS, The State for the biennium 1929-30 suffered on these several items an apparent loss of revenue of $21,996,947, which is more than double the excess of expenditures over revenue for the coming biennium; and

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Inman:

I insist that both former Governor Young and former State Director of Finance King promised financial aid to the Sacramento conference. No further evidence of this is required than the fact that we actually received services from the State in the approximate amount of $18,000.

I never have stated to anyone that either Young or King specified the amount of such services.

I insist that the first offer of financial assistance came entirely voluntarily, and without my solicitation, from State Director of Finance Alexander Heron on August 24, 1929; and that again this voluntary offer was repeated by the campaign publicity manager for Young to me in my office.

I insist that Mr. B. B. Meek, to whom both Governor Young and Mr. King had directed me in this matter, stated on March 15, 1930, that we might expect State aid in an amount not less than $50,000; and that in several following conversations with Meek I was encouraged to believe that we should receive that amount.

I have said that Governor Young told me, and then later told Mr. King in my presence, that he desired to aid as far as possible within the law. Mr. Meek, before three or four other persons, definitely stated that it was the Governor's desire "To go the legal limit for Lubin."

It was not until December, 1930, that Mr. Meek, very apologetically, wrote me that more money could not be allotted to us because "the emergency fund was almost hopelessly depleted." And then he advised that we appeal to the new administration and the 1931 Legislature for relief, volunteering to see Governor Rolph and Mr. Vandegrift in our behalf.

On December 27, 1929, over his signature, Governor Young issued a statement containing the following paragraphs:

"I have assured the Sacramento Region Citizens Council of the cooperation of this office, and of the helpful assistance of various departments of State government.

It is therefore my earnest desire that all citizens of California, as well as all civic and commercial associations, lend their full cooperation, that the greatest possible success may attend the Pan American Reciprocal Trade Conference."

On January 11, 1930, Governor Young, as stenographically reported, said this:

"It is a wonderful thing that this (conference) should come to California. It will put California ahead by a dozen years. I congratulate the council on that splendid vision; and I want the officers of the council to know that the State government of California will work early and late to make this vision and dream become a splendid reality."

The Governor repeated substantially these same words at Los Angeles on January 16 before the Foreign Trade Club.

The first unsolicited, voluntary offer of State aid was made by the State Director of Finance Heron. This was repeated and corroborated by Young's campaign publicity manager, who told me that "everything was all fixed." Young definitely stated that it was his desire to give us financial aid, and communicated this fact to State Director of Finance King in my presence on February 4, 1930. Meek definitely stated the approximate amount we might expect. It was not until December, about four months after the conference adjourned, that I was notified by Meek that, as the funds were hopelessly depleted, we could expect no more.

COMMUNICATION.

The following communication was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Christian:

FIRST HEBREW CONGREGATION OF OAKLAND,
TEMPLE SINAI, OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, April 21, 1931.

Senator E. H. Christian,

State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SENATOR CHRISTIAN: This morning I wired you in opposition to Assembly Bill No. 130, relative to kosher meat.

I am unalterably opposed to this bill because Judaism need not call upon the State to settle its own internal affairs. We are starting a dangerous precedent in California which can only lead to evil consequences.

Four years ago you assisted in preventing an increase of "wine rabbis." The law relative to sacramental wine was properly surrounded, and California Jews do not suffer the disgrace which eastern brethren feel.

This bill will bring a "meat rabbi" into existence. New York state has this kosher law and yet it did not prevent the terrible scandal which was uncovered last month in New York city. Use your best influence to prevent it.

If Judaism has not enough inner resources to meet present day conditions, the sooner it passes away the better.

With kindest personal regards, believe me to be

Yours very sincerely,

RUDOLPH I. COFFEE.

WHEREAS, In parts of California forest insects have killed over one-half of all commercial timber with annual losses in excess of ten per cent of the entire stand, and

Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring. That the Legislature of the State of California, at its forty-ninth session, commencing on the fifth day of January, 1931, two-thirds of all of the members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that section 8, of article XI of the constitution of the State of California, be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 8. Any city or city and county containing a population of more than 2500 inhabitants, as ascertained by the last preceding census taken under the authority of the Congress of the United States or of the Legislature of California, may frame a charter for its own government, consistent with and subject to this constitution; and any city, or city and county having adopted a charter may adopt a new one. Any such charter shall be framed by a board of 15 freeholders chosen by the electors of such city at any general or special election, but no person shall be eligible as a candidate for such board unless he shall have been, for the five years next preceding, an elector of said city. An election for choosing freeholders may be called by a two-thirds vote of the legislative body of such city, and on presentation of a petition signed by not less than 15 per cent of the registered electors of such city, the legislative body shall call such election at any time not less than 30 nor more than 60 days from date of the filing of the petition. Any such petition shall be verified by the authority having charge of the registration records of such city, or city and county and the expenses of such verification shall be provided by the legislative body thereof. Candidates for the office of freeholders shall be nominated either in such manner as may be provided for the nomination of officers of the municipal government or by petition, substantially in the same manner as may be provided by general laws for the nomination by petition of electors of candidates for public offices to be voted for at general elections. The board of freeholders shall, within one (1) year after the result of the election is declared, prepare and propose a charter for the government of such city. The charter so prepared shall be signed by a majority of the board of freeholders and filed in the office of the clerk of the legislative body of said city. The legislative body of said city shall, within fifteen (15) days after such filing, cause such charter to be published once in the official newspaper of said city and each edition thereof, during the day of publication (or in case there be no such official newspaper, in a newspaper of general circulation within such city and all the editions thereof issued during the day of publication) and in any city or city and county with over 50,000 population shall cause copies of such charter to be printed in convenient pamphlet form and in type of not less than 10 point and shall cause copies thereof to be mailed to each of the qualified electors of such city, and shall, until the day fixed for the election upon such charter, advertise in one or more newspapers of general circulation in said city a notice that copies thereof may be had upon application therefor. Such charter shall be submitted to the electors of such city at a date to be fixed by the board of freeholders, before such filing and designated on such charter, either at a special election held not less than 60 days from the completion of the publication of such charter as above provided, or at the general election next following the expiration of said 60 days. If a majority of the qualified voters voting thereon at such general or special election shall vote in favor of such proposed charter, it shall be deemed to be ratified, and shall be submitted to the Legislature, if then in session, or at the next regular or special session of the Legislature. The Legislature shall by concurrent resolution approve or reject such charter as a whole, without power of alteration or amendment; and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house it shall become the organic law of such city, or city and county and supersede any existing charter and all laws inconsistent therewith. One copy of the charter so ratified and approved shall be filed with the Secretary of State, one with the recorder in the county in which such city is located, and one in the archives of the city; and thereafter the courts shall take judicial notice of the provisions of such charter. The charter of any city, or city and county, may be amended by proposals therefor submitted by the legislative body of the city on its own motion or on petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors, or both. Such proposals shall be submitted to the electors at either a special election called for that purpose or at any general or special election. Petitions for the submission of any amendment shall be filed with the legislative body of the city, or city and county not less than 60 days prior to the general election next preceding a regular session of the Legislature. The signatures on such petitions shall be verified by the authority having charge of the registration records of such city, or city and county, and the expenses of such verification shall be provided by the legislative body thereof. If such petitions have a sufficient number of signatures the legislative body of the city, or city and county shall so submit the amendment or amendments so proposed to the electors. Amendments proposed by the legislative body and amendments proposed by petition of the electors may be submitted at the same election. The amendments so submitted shall be advertised in the same manner as herein provided for the advertisement of a proposed charter, and the election thereon held at a date to be fixed by the legislative body of such city, not less than 40, and not more than 60, days after the completion of the advertising in the official paper. If a majority of the qualified voters voting on any such amendment vote in favor thereof, it shall be deemed ratified, and shall be submitted to the Legislature at the regular session next following such election; and approved or rejected without power of alteration in the same manner as herein provided for the approval or rejection of a charter. In submitting any such charter or amendment separate
